DESIGNATIONS USED IN FLOCK HISTORIES

- (AC:BR) The letters (AC:BR) appearing beside a Flock in the Flock Histories, indicates that the Flock is accredited Brucellosis Free as at 30th April, 2007 with the Department of Agriculture in each State. State Departments of Agriculture can provide the current AC:BR status of any Flock on request, and intending purchasers should avail themselves of this free service.
- (LP) The letters (LP) beside a Flock indicate that the Flock claims accreditation with LAMBPLAN.
- (SS) Indicates flocks claiming accreditation with STOCKSCAN.
- (PS) Indicates flocks claiming accreditation with PRIMESCAN.

Editor's Note:

Flocks claiming "AC/BR" status have provided a current copy of their brucellosis accreditation certificate.

The status of flocks claiming "LP" and "SS" status has been confirmed by LAMBPLAN and Stockscan while Primescan status had not been confirmed at the time of going to press.

Australian Sheep Johnes' Disease Market Assurance Programme (Sheep Map).

Some members have claimed Monitored Negative Status. Please note that this information has not been cross-checked with Animal Health Australia as at May 2007. It is only a guide and before sheep are moved or bought, a purchaser should see the current certificate or a written vendor declaration of status.

THE OLSSON'S INDICATOR SYSTEM

HOW AND WHY IT WORKS

In the early 1920's it was found that animals given separately protein, energy and minerals and allowed to decide the proportions of each ingredient for themselves, out-performed those that were fed a fully mixed "ideal" ration.

Even today, although soil and plant analysis is available, these tests have little correlation to what is happening in the animal. Individual animals in fact, need different combinations of nutrients on any one day.

Thus it has been found that when we have a protein source, a dry feed supplement, a phosphorus and/or sulphur supplement and a protozoal retardant (Bentobite), each individual animal can select exactly which combination of nutrients it needs at that particular moment. The animal's physiological condition (pregnancy, lactation) also affects their nutritional requirements. Thus, if a herd of animals are at differing stages of pregnancy or lactation, the requirements throughout the herd will of course be different.

Using the Olsson's Indicator System of a combination of blocks, the pasture nutrient level can also be assessed. For example if growing animals or pregnant animals are grazing a pasture that is supplying sufficient nutrients for their needs, a protein source such as Peak 50 when put out will not be eaten. However, when the animals begin to eat the Peak 50 it indicates that, relative to their protein needs, the pasture is becoming deficient in protein. The condition of the animals will not appear to be affected to the naked eye, and so intervention can take place before any major loss of condition has occurred.

Three alternatives are then available to the producer:

1. They can move the animals to better pasture
2. They can provide more supplementation
3. They can sell

Using the Olsson's Indicator System and a range of blocks, rather than trying to force the animal to take all the nutrients in a fixed ration, gives better production for less money and allows each animal to feed individual requirements.

Also 3 or 4 blocks in combination does not mean that you will use 3-4 times the amounts of supplement. It means that you will use less. The Indicator System is a rational, intelligent use of technology.

If the animals do not eat the blocks, don't worry. This means that they don't need the supplement at that time. However if they do consume any one or two blocks, they are the blocks they need at that time. Therefore, these are the blocks to be supplemented. You will find that needs vary from animal to animal, paddock to paddock and season to season. By supplementing in this way you will be in front of the animals needs and not behind it, in which case you will have to catch up. Consequently you will use less blocks overall because it takes more energy to put on weight than it does to maintain it. Criticism of supplement blocks is usually related to the fact that animals may consume different amounts. However, this is true of everything they eat and cannot be changed. In addition to this, absorption rates and individual requirements are variable. This leads to the assumption that individual animals are choosing what they need out of their feed and just because some don't eat a particular ration or product, does not mean that all the animals will not eat or will not need it.
